THE LEGISLATURE ADJOURNED.

The legislature of Nevada for 1901 and its doings are largely matters of history to be disposed of favorable or unfavorable to those who participated in its proceedings. There is one matter if no more, when compared with the history of past legislatures in the State, which will be to its credit and that is the manhood of a majority of the body.

The information of the writer respecting bills as amended and passed is not sufficient to give any detail of its work or to pass a judgment upon the wisdom of it, but he believes it is of considerable value to the people of the State, and that much has been done that will be a benefit to the future of the State. There were laws introduced and passed which have germs in them when fertilized by opportunities connected with them, that should bear fruit worthy of the State, possessed as it is of the very best natural resources.

The field for legislation of a decided and marked character is not large in our hitherto unfortunate little commonwealth. Its people are few in number, but they are the most hopeful class there is on the earth, or they would have died of the blues long ago. There are in the State men who have hoped against hope and remained with its fortunes for a life time believing that some conditions for its relief would make an appearance.

The question that seems to be in the minds of many at present pertains to the late changes and their probable result upon the State's immediate future. The present and future prosperity of Nevada is largely dependent upon the present and future action of the Southern Pacific Railroad company.

Should its action through its changed management be favorable to the development of the State it will materially aid the people, but should its former course be continued the State will remain in its vassalage to the Southern Pacific which has been continuous since the Central Pacific entered the State with all of its blighting consequences of a worse than feudal condition.

The lord of the manor, which is now the Southern Pacific, will continue to require the people to pay tithes after the manner of half barbarous times, but small favors are gratefully received by its most humble slaves, as they give relief to an enslaved people. The removal of an overseer and his bloodhounds which were quartered everywhere in the State to keep the people in subjection and fear, should be a harbinger of better days in the future, and it is so accepted by a majority of the people, who were fearful to speak on some subjects above a whisper.

It is creditable to the intelligence of the late legislative body that it has been able to provide legislation for the State without the aid of a boss or overseer, accompanied by hounds with mouths bathed in foam, hungry for the spoils of the chase. There has been no legislation in a direct way to secure relief in the matter of fares or freights within the State, which is all well enough under existing circumstances.

The new management should have opportunity to make known its course respecting its future in the State. Should it be conciliatory it will be made known within the next two years. Should it be otherwise or upon a slave footing, it will be made known before the next legislature will come together, when it will be a duty the people will owe to themselves and to posterity to meet conditions as near as it may be possible to meet them with like conditions.

STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

There was a meeting of the directors of the State Agricultural Society yesterday at the parlors of the Palace hotel in Reno. The directory did not have any appearance of injury received at Carson from the late strike made by that town before the legislature to secure the State fair.

There was a little wreckage came floating in, torn from the boom of that burg in its contest with Reno, but the wreckage was properly cared for by Reno giving it a place on the board. There was only one spar detached from its moorings by force of contact with Reno the day the Carson and

Many Things Are Meant

By many dealers who claim to handle groceries. When they advertise GOOD GROCERIES no mention is made of PRICE. When price is mentioned QUALITY IS OVER-LOOKED. Again, sometimes they dwell on the virtues of a LARGE STOCK. In this case no claim is made to carrying FRESH GOODS.

We Preach the Three Main Virtues of Groceries—
Quality Quantity Price
They are mentioned in their regular order and the happy combination is causing hosts of pleased patrons at
